GOOD-BYE, GARBAGE MASTER.

Mayor Broatch Decides to Remove Inspector Goldsmith.

MALFEASANCE IN OFFICE.

Did Goldsmith Really Work Both Ends of the Route? An Investi-gation and a Row With the Dealer in Poles.

Goldsmith Removed.

Garbage-Master Goldsmith, the sentleman who for some time has superintended the hatting of various decaying animals from all parts of the city to the dump mar the Union Pacific bridge, will be suspended by Mayor Breatch this morning for malfeasures in

It is claimed that Goldsmith has been in the halt of hading animals away, collect-ing from the parties who ordered the job done, nod collecting from the city afterward. Councilman Wheeler claims the credit of having made the discovery, and for a long tupe he has been on the lookout for an op-portunity of detecting Goldsmith, which he portunity of detecting Goldsmita, which he finally claims to have secured.

The culmination of his investigations took place in the office of Councilman Chaffee, in the New York Life onliding yesterday afternoon, at a meeting at which Mayor Broatch and Councilmen Chaffee, Huraham

Stroatch and Conneilmen Chaffee, Buraham and Whesler were present. Goldsmith was sent for and after a time appeared on the scena. The remainder of the story is best told in the following statements by Mayor Broatch and Wheeler were present.

Coldenth was sent for and after a time appeared on the scene.

The remainder of the story is best told in the following statements by Mayor Breatch and himselt. Said the Mayor:

"I think that there is no need of giving any publicity to the matter whatever. I have determined to suspend Golismith, and will do se to morrow. I have it in my power to suspena him and revoke his commission as a special policeman, and shall do so. He has, I am informed, been guilty of malfessauce in office, and there are several instances where he has hauled animals to the dump for private citizens and received payment therefore, while at the same time he has charged the city for the same work. Mr. Whoeler was the first finanto discover the matter, and has investigated it, and I am satisfied that in suspending Goldsmith I am doing right.

"I understand," cantiened the maver, "that Goldsmith has asserted that he will make some very serious charges signist me requiring my action in ordering presidents. He will make some very serious charges signist me requiring my action in ordering presidents. He will make now sury serious charges signist me requiring my action in ordering presidents. Regarding this is known as the burnet district. Regarding this is half speak when the time comes, and do not care to make any assertions as present. That is all I have to say at the cold of the latter for some time, if indications are to be relied upon. For two or three days he has built a reporter under his guidance the latter has been expected by the latter for some time, if indications are to be relied upon. For two or three days he has built a reporter and to reconstitute the proposed to know a timing or two, and the pair reputred to his office on South Tarricenth yestorially afternoon for the purpose of karning something. A row ensued and the reporter and Dr. Stominski were arrested on the charge of disturbing the project. The defondants were given a ride in the patroit wagon to central solite station, where they were releas terrogator, but court was in session and the interviewor's life was saved. Later on Stominski volutieured the following statements:

"Goldsmith came to me with a young mm. I dien't know who be was, but I had been told that det ectives were watching me; that enemies of mine in the cast had sent spies here to shadow me and watch my every movement. I asspected both Goldsmith, and the young fellow, who mow turns out to be a reporter, as spies."
Then Stominski related the access that followed, "Comers said that he had heard that I had offered Councilman Kaspar 2100 to now turns out to be added that I had offered Councilman Kaspar 2100 to now turns seed in the council a resolution allowed, "Comers said that he had heard that I had offered Councilman Kaspar 2100 to now turns seed in the council a resolution in the new to have been the council a resolution in the new to have a seed of the new to have been founded in the life of the council and newer seen Kaspar to told him that I had never seen Kaspar the told him that I had never seen Kaspar the told him that they come man said. Estitute you or Kaspar has led. This made me supry and I arose, picking up a chair as I did so, and ordered the follow out of my office. Goldsmith, that he was an officer of the law. Comiors then drew a revolver, and I cried out for help. My brother and another friend came into the room and the utrailers went out. After that a pollocuman arrested both Comiors and myself."

This whole trouble arose over a quarrel between Mayor Housten and Goldsmith, Goldsmith, and for several days has been encayoring to secure dimaring ovidence against the mayor and his friends. Goldsmith, South and the secure of the life for hard they for the life for heart of the life of the major and his friends. Goldsmith, The heart of him. He amended, and for several days has been encayoring to secure dimaring ovidence against the mayor and his friends. Goldsmith, The heart of him. He amended and they tell me it's no co. Consequently, Pm going to sitck till I'm fired. He r and they tell me nt's no ro. Consequently, Pm going to stick till I'm fired. Herostch can't run me out till after I've had a hearing and a rair examination before the councit."

Goldsmith is of the opinion that his hecture-in-law, Lawraus, has been talking about him, as Lararus was several weeks so fired from the employ of Goldsmith.

Goldsmith's description of the meeting hetween himself and the council committee in as follows:

"A telephone messure came to my office about 11:50 a. m. I had gone home to lunch. When I recurred, about 20 oluce, I was informed into some councilmen in the New Toronto International Committee in the International Committee in I

MRS, FRANK LESLIE'S APRONS.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE'S APRONS.
The Beautiful Piccow, Some of Which a Queen Might Wear.

Mrs. Frank Leslie is wedded to her aprons, many of which were crucered from the famous manufacturers of Chantilly, Medici, Valencienness and point gaven, says the Philadelphia Press. She has at least fire black tace aprons woven in one piece that a queen might wear as a fascinator about her bead, or as a bertha to fill in the cormage of a court bodice; and any one of three creamy things, made of old Portuguese point insected is a bridal veil would be like a solitaire gem in a cluster of brilliants—a jewel. These lovely, magic webs are worn with evening dressles when she prendos at her ten table or brews. Turkish coffee for an "after dinnor." Knowing her fondness for the abbreviated pirafore, which is raroty larger than a bridal handkerchief, the French medistes from whom her dresses are imported invariebly design an norm of painted, etched or wrought lace to harmonize with the tollet, unless meant for the ball room. The black here, black silk, black eather, black jet and black reche aprons that Mrs. Leslie pets and wears constantly at home and on long journeys are quite as numerous as her fans. During her active business life she was never without an apron. Somatime it was a mosaic of face and silk, tied with a rope of kismet, again at was a square of surah silk with a small pencock or a baby stork standing on one leg embroidered in the corner; or the catchy thing was white minsook with a peaket and a blue now and one drop of ottar of rises in a state of ravishing evaporation to disturb a steady brain and maden a gildy one. The men went wild over those gainsy tuckers; they had never seen anything just like them before, and they were dissected and described in the clubs and cafes, till they reached the ears of the women, who came from everywhere in two and threes to get a peeps at he black aproos that had twisted the fancies and turned the heads of their husbands and brothers.

MATE.

One of the Beverages of South America.

At the Paris exposition, says the Garden and Forest, many of the South America and Forest, many of the South American republics show specimens of the product known locally asyerba mata or Paragonyan toa, and derived from the torribed leaves and stalks of different species of liex. It is exhibited in packages and in original baies of green hide. This is the dietic beverage of about 20,000,000 in South America, and its popularity is shown by the exhibits in the various pavillions of the Argentine Republic. Paragony, Iruguay, Bravill, Chill, Bolivia, etc. It is difficult to get any reliable returns as to the entire traffic in this commodity, the production of which is carried on in such a desultory and wide manace, and extends over so wast as area of wild consumption is 35,000,000 pounds, against 5,000,000 pounds, against 5,000,000 pounds, against 6,000,000 pounds; from Brazil there is su export of 90,000,000 pounds to neighboring states, while, the local consumption is about half as much. This is singular in the great coffee-producing center of the world, which sends into commerce annually more than half the entire produce of coffee. Strong efforts are being made to open a trade with it in Europe, especially in France, who re shops indvertise and recommend it. Wether this will succeed remains to beyon, looking at the increased production of tea and the coormous increase in sale in Europe.

Approaching in its chemical composition to coffee and tea, it is asserted that it does not cause wakefulness or prevent sleep. In the rural districts, as well as in the smaller towns, this beverage is considered a regular form of diet and not, like tea, a mere accompantment of the breakfast table. It is sweetened with sugar until it almost becomes a sirup. It is sold at two ponce to four pence per pound, and one pound will produce about twenty quarts of infusion. It is sometimes flavored with cinnamon, orange peel, or lemon juice.

Murier By a Returned Convict
A terrible murder was receatly committed by a returned convict at Bordon and they have been as a returned from New Caledonia, where they had completed a term of nenal servitude for coming money. The two men, Truchy and Broquere, went to a low hotel in the town and paid for a night's lodging thore. Shortly after the pair had returned to their room they were heard disputing loudly, and the sounds of their scuffling caused the leadlord of their scuffling caused the leadlord of their scuffling caused the leadlord of their scuffling caused the found that Truchy had cut his companion's throat with an enormous shouthkulfe which he carried. On the floor lay Broquere dead, the blood coring from a deep and broad gash in his throat. Truchy told the police that he and his mate had quarreled as to what they should do with a sum of £125 (or £,000.) which they had amissed in New-Caledonia. Broquere waited to recommence counting faise money. Truchy—according to his own account—insisted that they should open a wine shop. Thereupon Broquere pulled a razor and threatened the other, who employed his knife to some purpose in defending himself. After having made this statement Truchy was taken to prison.

Spanish Literary Decadence.

Spantsh Literary Decadence.

Perhaps no country has so remarkably published its own literary decadence as Spain, says a writer in Notes and Queries. Whon "Don Quizote" was published the Spantards were a reading people, and gorgeous books were printed and published at Burgos, Seville, Malaga, Coimbra, Toledo, Alcala de Henarces, Valiadolid, Huesca, Cuoncu, Barcelona, Medina del Campo, Valencia Salumanca, Perpinan, Zaragosa, Tarragona, Evora, Bilbon, Logreno, Baeza, Tolosa, Joen, Cordeva, Pamplona, Lerida, and, of course, Madrid—a fine list of publishing business is confined for the most part to Madrid, Harcelona and Seville, and it is not a flourishing business.

Common Sense

Common Fense

Should be used in attempting to cure that very disagreeable disense, catarrh. A catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common-sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. That this becaliar medicine does cure catarrh is shown by the many testimentals from people who have found rollef upon using it when all others had failed.
